referring your patients for dental implants

The loss or absence of teeth, be it through dental disease, accident or congenital defect, not only affects appearance and confidence, it can also hinder speech and the ability to eat and enjoy food.

For almost 40 years, dental implants have offered a scientifically proven means of replacing one or more missing teeth or to anchor dentures securely.

Dental implants:

- Replace one or more lost teeth
- Hold prostheses securely in the mouth
- Are scientifically researched and proven
- Successful in over 96% of cases
- Improve quality of life

Replacing teeth with implants has several major advantages over traditional methods:

- Implants look, feel and function like a natural tooth
- The procedure does not require adjacent teeth to be 'cut back'
- The implant replaces the tooth root which preserves the bone
- They prevent bone collapse and provide better long term aesthetics
